

Low fidelity

High fidelity

Design Rationale

For the cart page, my design approach was to show a review of the selected items. I chose not to have a back button to make it difficult for the user to go back and encourage them to complete the purchase.

The information of their order is laid out in a row and they also have the option to remove an item from their bag.

For the product details page, upon selecting different options, the price changes to reflect the selection.

All images used in the website have been taken from Unsplash.com and are free from copyright liabilities.

Website Link

Bunbun Bake House website